MORE GRADS THAN EVER

There will be 2,487 students graduating from Concordia University this year—an increase of 104 students over the year before.

Graduates will receive degrees and diplomas at four convocations from June 4 to 11, at which seven prominent Canadians will receive honorary degrees.

In terms of graduates, the recently-created Faculty of Arts and Science produced the greatest number of graduates at 1,442. The Faculty is the successor to the former SGW Faculty of Arts, the former Sir George Williams Faculty of Science and the former Loyola Faculty of Arts and Science.

The Faculty of Commerce and Administration came in second with 651. The Engineering Faculty accounts for 202 graduates and the Faculty of Fine Arts for 192 graduates.

On page two and three in this convocation issue, we have biographical sketches of this year's recipients of honorary degrees.

Towards the back of this issue, there is the full list of graduates and a time table for the four convocations.

Make 'em pay says Marsden

Make students pay more for their education if you expect them to value it, Concordia Prof. Michael Marsden told the Commission d'études sur les universités recently.

In a private brief to the Quebec government commission of inquiry into university affairs, Prof. Marsden said that students should pay on a sliding scale of fees.

"There is a crisis of confidence in the universities and the content and quality of a degree is no longer held in unquestioned esteem," his brief said.

Rector Dr. John O'Brien thanks Mrs. Fox, whose late husband, mathematics Prof. Charles Fox left a 15th Century Book of Hours and an 18th Century arabic book of essays and poems to the Special Collections section of the Concordia Libraries. Both works are handwritten and contain gold leaf lettering with the Book of Hours containing many hand-painted illustrations.

"Rightly or wrongly there is a belief that standards have declined and 'grade inflation' is a well-known phenomenon," he said in the 23-page brief.

"Whereas formerly students had to desire a place in a university and earn entry, the modern system is set up so that to continue one's education is normal;

HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENTS

James Finnie

James Finnie, a founding father of the Sir George Faculty of Commerce, will receive an honorary degree from Concordia University.

Prof. Finnie, 69, will receive the honorary doctorate of laws at the Faculty of Commerce & Administration convocation at 2 p.m., June 4 at the Loyola Campus, 7141 Sherbrooke St. W.

Born near Glasgow, Prof. Finnie left Scotland for Canada as a boy in 1928, working the lumber camps and road gangs of Northern Ontario.

After a leg injury which crippled him, he approached Henry F. Hall, then principal of Sir George Williams College and asked for another chance at education.

"And with the YMCA and Sir George behind me, I've never looked back," he said.

In those early years, Prof. Finnie was the sum total of the accounting department of which he is now a professor. He said he had turned down administrative positions because he could never leave the classroom.

Ian Westbury

"It's one of the hazards of the profession," he said. "Teachers do not get the same public attention as administrators."

Prof. R. Curnew, chairman of Concordia marketing and former student of Prof. Finnie, said: "I can't think of anything spectacular in his career, other than saying he is one of the finest and most decent people I know."

Louis Muhlstock

The distinguished Canadian artist, Louis Muhlstock, is to receive an honorary degree from Concordia University.

Mr. Muhlstock, who came to Montreal as a child from Galicia (now Poland) in 1911, will receive the honorary doctorate at the Faculty of Fine Arts convocation, 8:15 p.m., June 6, in the Henry F. Hall Building, 1455 de Maisonneuve Blvd. W.

Now 74, Louise Muhlstock continues to paint and draw as he has done for the past 43 years in his Ste-Famille Street studio.

When he was ten, he had already attended a number of art classes and saved money while he worked in his father's fruit business to go to Paris, where he studied for three years.

In the 1930s, he painted the people, the doorways, the houses and lanes around his home at St-Dominique and Ste-Catherine Streets.

His activities included membership in the Canadian Group of Painters (the large, loosely-knit follow-up to the Group of Seven).

Mr. Muhlstock is by no means unconcerned with formal qualities of art, but his overriding interest is in communicating the character of his subject.

"I don't do them," he told critic Virginia Nixon last year, "I just translate them. I look at the sky and admire the particular quality of blue and I try to arrive at it in my painting. Paint in itself is lifeless. You have to transpose that lifeless paint into a particular quality of light. That's the challenge. That's where art begins."

J.G. Kaplan

Concordia University will grant distinguished biologist J. Gordin Kaplan an honorary degree.

Dr. Kaplan, 55, will receive his honorary degree at the Faculty of Arts & Science convocation, 2 p.m., June 11 at the Loyola Campus of Concordia University, 7141 Sherbrooke St. W.

Dr. Kaplan, a naturalized Canadian citizen, was born in New York where he received a bachelor of arts degree from the College of the City of New York in 1943.

His studies were interrupted by service with the U.S. Army Medical Department, where he served with the 50th Field Hospital in Europe.

On his return, Dr. Kaplan completed his M.A. and Ph.D. at Columbia University by 1950 after which he was appointed assistant professor in physiology and biophysics at Dalhousie University in Halifax. By 1962 he had risen to the rank of full professorship.

In 1966, Dr. Kaplan joined the biology department at the University of Ottawa and has been chairman since 1975. Fluent in French, he was also a visiting professor at l'Université de Montréal in 1968.

John Dinsmore

John Dinsmore, the chairman and chief executive officer of Marine Industries, will receive an honorary degree from Concordia.

Mr. Dinsmore, a former Quebec deputy minister, will receive his honorary doctorate at the Faculty of Engineering and Computer Science convocation at 8:15 p.m., June 8 in the Hall Building.

Born in Toronto in 1931, Mr. Dinsmore was educated there and in Montreal. He graduated with honours from McGill electrical engineering in 1952.

He worked in systems engineering and marketing at Canadian Electric Company. In 1956 he returned to university study at the Centre d'études industrielles in Geneva.

Two years later, he set out with Godber, Dinsmore, Lindsay Ltd. and entered the product development field. In 1961, his firm acquired E.W. Playford Company.

From 1970 to 1973, Mr. Dinsmore was the associate deputy minister in the Quebec education department and from 1973-1975 he was the assistant deputy minister in the Department of Industry and Commerce. He became the senior deputy minister in 1975 and retained that post for two years.

On July 1, 1977, Mr. Dinsmore was appointed to his present post.

Harry J. Boyle

Harry J. Boyle, chairman of the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission, will receive an honorary degree from Concordia University.

Mr. Boyle, author of The Great Canadian Novel and The Luck of the Irish, will receive the honorary doctorate of laws at the Faculty of Arts & Science convocation on the Loyola campus June 11.

Born at St-Augustine, Ontario in 1915, Mr. Boyle was a broadcast executive of many years' standing and a nationally known writer when he was appointed CRTC vice-chairman in 1968.

Mr. Boyle became chairman three years ago.

He completed high school in Wingham, Ont., then attended St-Jerome's College in Kitchener. He started his radio career in 1931 on radio station CKNX, Wingham.

After a brief stint with the Stratford Beacon-Herald, Mr. Boyle joined the CBC in 1942 as a farm commentator, rising to the directorship of CBC radio.

His books, Homebrews and Patches and The Luck of the Irish, each received the Stephen Leacock Medal for humor in 1963 and 1976 respectively.

Irene Senécal

Irene Senécal, a pioneer in developing Quebec art education, will receive an honorary degree from Concordia University.

Mrs. Senécal, born and raised in Montreal, will receive the honorary doctorate at the Faculty of Fine Arts convocation, 8:15 p.m., June 6 in the Henry F. Hall Building, 1455 de Maisonneuve Blvd. W.

After graduating from the old Sisters of Ste-Anne boarding school, Pensionnat Ste-Angèle in Montreal, Mrs. Senécal entered l'Ecole des Beaux-Arts de Montreal in 1924.

Mrs. Senécal then joined the Montreal Catholic School Commission as an art teacher and began her life's work—bringing art to places where there had been none before.

Recalling these early days of the 1930s in east end Hochelaga, Mrs. Senécal said: "It was so difficult then. We had nothing for the children. Just paper, not even colours."

Never resting on her laurels, always pushing back the frontiers of ignorance, Mrs. Senécal moved to the outlying districts, Rigaud, Victoriaville and other neglected areas to set up art education programs with whatever materials were at hand.

In the 1950s and '60s, Mrs. Senécal in a recent interview, "is to develop the artistic mentality through practical work and basic art education."

Mrs. Senécal is also the author of L'éducation artistique, published by the Musée d'art contemporain in 1976.

Mass

You are invited to attend the Convocation Mass in the Loyola Chapel on Sunday June 11, 1978 at 11:00 A.M.

This will be a liturgical celebration of the end of the academic year, and of course, for the graduates, it marks the end of their years at Concordia.

Concelebrants are invited to participate. The homily will be delivered by Dr. Sean McEvenue, Chairman of the Department of Theological Studies.

Robert Boyd

Robert Boyd, president of both Hydro-Quebec and the James Bay Energy Corporation, will receive an honorary degree from Concordia University.

Mr. Boyd, who received his engineering degree from Ecole Polytechnique de Montreal in 1943, will receive his honorary degree at Concordia's Faculty of Engineering convocation, 8:15 p.m., June 8 in the Henry F. Hall Building, 1455 de Maisonneuve Blvd. W.

Mr. Boyd, 60, was born and raised in Sherbrooke, where he received his elementary and secondary education. After graduating from Ecole Polytechnique, he joined the Dominion Rubber Company, only to leave within a year to join the newly formed Hydro-Quebec.

He started in the technical projects division, later becoming the supervisor of operators in 1947, rising to superintending engineer in 1954, assistant chief engineer in 1958 and chief engineer in 1962.

The following year, Mr. Boyd became the general manager of the distribution and sales department and as such, was one of the prime movers in the creation of the Hydro-Quebec Institute of Research.

In 1969, he was appointed a commissioner of Hydro-Quebec by the provincial government and in 1972 was appointed the commissioner in charge of the James Bay hydro-electric project and was soon made president of the James Bay Energy Corporation.

Mr. Boyd was also instrumental in signing the Churchill Fall hydro-electric agreement with Newfoundland, which has been the subject of controversial debate in recent months.

Exam cheating resolution wins approval, Prof. Titler goes down fighting Concordia Senate last Friday approved university-wide regulations on examination cheating.

Under the new rules, a student suspected of cheating will be informed by the invigilator and be required to leave the examination room.

Prof. Robert Titler, History, objected to this, saying that the student should only be informed and not thrown out.

But other Senators said that this aspect of the question had been fully discussed at a previous meeting and Prof. Titler's motion died without a seconder.

Jim McCully, Loyola student senator, successfully piloted two amendments on the resolution through Senate.

Mr. McCully won senate approval for an extension from 14 to 21 days the time students have to admit or deny cheating charges.

The new regulation also provides that the invigilator offer suspects the option of continuing the exam, with the understanding that if charges are not upheld, the student will be allowed to re-take an exam or be able to continue the same exam under controlled conditions in another location.

Mr. McCully also won approval for an amendment which allows suspects to receive all the time lost during the constabulary procedures.

The new regulations call for the creation of panel of full time faculty named by the Faculty Council and a panel of undergraduates named by the student associations. From the panel the dean involved with the case will establish a hearing committee of two faculty and two students.

The registrar and the suspect have rights of appeal to the Senate on either a question of guilt or of punishment.

The new regulations call for punishments ranging from the imposition of a failing grade and ineligibility of writing a supplemental exam to suspension with the necessity of re-applying to the university for re-admission.

Sen. David Hedmann tries to save homes

Gulf Oil's plans to demolish the apartment building at 6935 Sherbrooke W. may be thwarted, according to Loyola Student Senator David Hedmann.

"But, it's up to the Loyola student associations", he said.

A May 15 meeting with Gulf representatives Joe Cottreau, Guy Fleury, and Ford Ralph, and Klaas Blysm and Mark Boundy of the NDG Tenants' Association ended in a draw, with Hedmann and the NDG Tenant's Association proposing to join Gulf in an effort to get City Hall to change Mariette street from one-way north to one-way south or, better still, a two-way thoroughfare. As of now the one-way north street is inconvenient to motorists using the station from Sherbrooke Street.

"It's not that the lot is too small", said Hedmann, "Gulf needs the Sherbrooke frontage, since that's where the bulk of the market comes from.

"But if we can get a guarantee from Gulf that they won't tear down the building in question, we're willing to add our voice to theirs to force the city into redirecting traffic."

That promise is not as yet forthcoming, however, as Gulf may tear down the housing regardless of the direction of Mariette.

"Unless we get a written guarantee we are certainly not going to help Gulf have its own way", said Hedmann.

A spokesman for the city claimed that rerouting traffic on Mariette would "upset the equilibrium" of the neighbourhood, and the MUC apparently considers the case closed.

"We can apply a great deal of pressure and effect the necessary changes", said Hedman who graduates this year. He said he will continue to fight as "a concerned citizen".

"However, I feel it's up to the LSA to support us in this, possibly in a boycott of Gulf Oil products", he concluded.

Dean Pierre

Student senators received unexpected help from incoming commerce dean Pierre Simon at last Friday's Senate meeting.

Not yet a senator, Dr. Simon plunged into the debate on whether students should get more power in judging whether faculty should get more pay and promotions.

In the end, the students won. Senate voted to recommend that The Goard of Governors make formal arrangements in the "not too distant future" for student input on the departmental level in judging whether faculty are worth more money.

Student senators Jean Robertson, David Hedmann and Jim McCully led the attack in beefing up a clause which said that students would be included in the process.

Simon supports students

Student senators pointed out that they have a unique position in judging the competence of a professor because they have to sit in front of him all year.

They objected to the off-handed method student involvement was included. They wanted the word "formal" to be affixed to the word "arrangement" for student involvement to underline that they were to be a part of the decision-making process.

Some faculty members were slow to see the distinction between "arrangements" and "formal" or "formalized arrangements," but not Dr. Simon.

"I have strong feelings on this," he told Senate. "Students have not been considered as fully as they should be. Students should be involved in this process. I must speak in favor of their position," he said.

TESL medal minted

Concordia Senate voted May 17 to accept an Interim Council of Arts and Science recommendation that a medal be established for the Bachelor of Education TESL (Teaching English as a Second Language) program and that the medal should be known Stokes medal. Prof. Stokes was primarily responsible for the establishment of TESL and the council felt that naming the medal after her "brings honor to the faculty and the university."

L'institut Simone de Beauvoir est née

Concordia Senate May 17 voted 21 - 8 to accept Simone de Beauvoir as the name of the new institute of women's studies which will be functioning this September.

The name aroused controversy after it was chosen months ago. A letter to Le Devoir from la Fédération des Femmes du Québec wanted a Canadian, preferably a Quebecoise name.

The women's college sponsors reconsidered their choice of Simone de Beauvoir, but Prof. Christine Allen said they decided against changing it.

Prof. Mair Verthuy, who did not favor Simone de Beauvoir as a name when the women's group discussed it earlier, cast her vote to support the name in Senate.

"The vote we took (among the women) was democratic and proper in every respect. I must be bound by the will of the majority and therefore I support the name," she said.

Father Russell Breen, vice-rector academic, said he would prefer a Canadian name. He and others also pointed out that it was dangerous to give the name of someone still living, as she might embarrass the institute with unpleasant actions in the future.

But Dr. Robert Wall, Provost in charge of colleges, as a professor of history, disagreed. "There is no guarantee the dead won't embarrass you," he said. "There is so much being written these days which casts an altogether different light on historical personalities and much of the light is not very flattering."

Concordia Senate gave quick and unanimous approval to the name "L'Université de l'Ontario" at the May 17 meeting. There was a question on why the word "university" was included in the title and it was explained that in Quebec, the word "college" alone, means different things to different people.

Fine Arts too clubby for Senate's taste

A Fine Arts omnibus resolution of minor programs scraped through Concordia Senate last Friday, but not without a fight.

There was little trouble with most of the resolution. A specialization in Music and Graphics went through easily enough. So did a minor in animation.

But what really caused the fuss was a proposal to create a minor in photo-

A&S certificate approved

Concordia Senate May 17 voted approval for the creation of a General Certificate in Arts & Science, designed for part-time students who qualify for admission to first cycle programs but who have not determined a program by the time of the registration.

The certificate requires the successful completion of 30 credits, 24 of which must be chosen from courses offered by not more than three departments in the Faculty of Arts & Science. Credits in the certificate may not be counted towards additional credits in extended programs.

Students entering the University after Sept. 1, 1978 as independents will be permitted to apply no more than thirty credits obtained as an independent student towards any Arts & Science Faculty degree program.

graphy, a minor which would be closed to all but Fine Arts students.

After some debate, Senate passed the minor in photography but with the understanding that the Faculty of Fine Arts would permit non-Fine Arts students to compete for the 15 places it would create.

Before that, the tone of the meeting became sharp when divisional dean Bill Akin suggested that "Senate was being blackmailed" into accepting the measure, as it was first written.

Father Russell Breen, vice-rector academic, asked whether Fine Arts was suggesting that photography become a minor because of philosophical reasons or whether this was the back door towards creating a major.

Father Breen said that journalism was a minor, but there had been considerable pressure to make it more than that.

Dean Alf Pinsky, Fine Arts, said that photography has been recognized as a "legitimate art form", no longer deserving the second class citizenship it had been accorded by the art world in the past.

Prof. Denis O'Connor, Philosophy, looked at the Fine Arts proposal in print making with bewilderment, reading the confusing paragraph to Senate:

"In the 1960s a new awareness of the print as a 'front line' art form took hold, a renaissance of excited experimentation, technical permutation and creative daring burst forth."

"Quite frankly," Prof. O'Connor said, "I can't make head nor tail of it. Perhaps someone here might offer an interpretation."

Dean Pinsky said that, like photography, print making has not received the legitimacy it rightly deserves and the statement expresses that concern. As it stands, the Fine Arts omnibus resolution must be re-written to remove the element of exclusivity and re-presented to Senate in the Fall.

In case you missed the news in the "At a Glance" column, Mag Flynn and Joan Richardson, who have been working together for 15 years, were married May 15 in Montreal. All the best from everyone!

Family course helps at home—grads

Two West Island mothers came to Concordia two years ago to discover that being an active parent and a student was not only possible but highly beneficial.

"There's no doubt about it," said Laurie Behrendt, of Pierrefonds. "The family life course really helped improve life at home."

Jean Maine, of Kirkland, said: "I can really talk with my son better than I could before. The course taught me to listen."

For the last two years Mrs. Maine, 31, and her friend Mrs. Behrendt, 39, have attended Concordia's Certificate Program for Family Life Educators.

This month they graduate with the Certificate and 30 credits towards their BAs.

The two, mothers of high school age children, discovered that this two-year program dovetailed with family life.

"Almost everything you learn can either be used at home or in the community," said Mrs. Behrendt, who takes care of Lisa, 16, and has two married children as well.

And it was in the community where she first practiced what she learnt.

They co-led a group of Beaconsfield High School parents through a series of problem-solving seminars on how to deal with teenagers.

"We got the police youth squad in to talk to the group," Mrs. Behrendt said. "We talked about teenagers and drugs—but the big problem on the West Island these days is B & E, breaking and entering."

She said that leading a group of 35 parents presented many problems, but that the Concordia course was a big help in solving them.

"There would be times when an

Ian Westbury

Laurie Behrendt and Jean Maine tell the tale individual would want to dominate the group, or another person would refuse to listen to another point of view. We learned a lot in group dynamics on how to handle that sort of thing," Mrs. Behrendt said.

On the home front, Mrs. Behrendt said that there had been considerable improvement in everything from relations with her daughter to sex with her husband.

My daughter said she wanted to learn police technology," she said. "Before, I would have exploded. But now I say, why not. Why shouldn't she learn what she wants to? It doesn't have to last forever."

On her sex life, she said: "We're much more open about it now. That's what our sexuality course did. We can talk about things now—when before we couldn't."

Mrs. Maine reports much the same thing: "I used to think I was a good listener, but after these courses, I learned I wasn't really listening at all."

"I have a new relationship with my boy (aged 12). He's changed too, I think. Before, I would shout at him and I don't do that so often now. I see things more objectively. I treat him more like an adult and he responds better," Mrs. Maine said.

She also learned about the sociology of sex roles. "My husband and I share more than we used to. I can now take in the car for repairs, when before that was exclusively his job. And he doesn't mind helping around the house."

While all this is useful at home, Mrs. Maine, a former sales rep for Maclean-Hunter, wants to become a full time social worker one day. And doing the Family Life Course is a definite step in that direction.

"Laurie [Mrs. Behrendt] and I were in CEGEP before going to Concordia," she said. "But being on a university level is so much better—it leads to proper qualifications. All in all, it was the best thing for us."

indeed given the unemployment situation, to discontinue is uncomfortable and may be humiliating.

"The right to a 'free' CEGEP training and the compulsion upon universities to accept CEGEP graduates have eliminated any sense of privilege, or attendant obligations among the young," he said.

He said that students should be made more aware of true cost of education through a Medicare-like billing system, where the true cost is itemized on the bill, even though the government pays most of it.

"On completion of each academic year, he would be eligible to receive fees for the following year. In addition, scholarship, grants, or loans would be right, but the availability of fees and grants would be on a sliding scale and subject to a means test based on income tax returns and place of residence.

"Under this system the Quebec student would have absolute freedom of choice. He may go anywhere but will not receive support beyond the Quebec average cost," Prof. Marsden said.
